

How to Find a Book Using the Drill Hall Catalogue

If you know the exact title of the item you are looking for type it in here, if you don't get a result try using 'Keyword' instead.

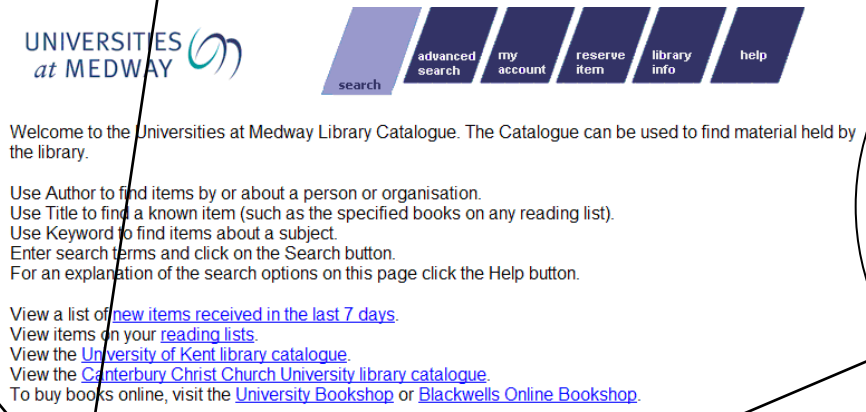

If you know the name of the author type it in here. The surname should be sufficient by itself.

If you are not sure of the exact title or do not have a particular item in mind, use the Keyword box. Type in a partial title or the subject you are looking for. Try to be specific or you will get too many results

Ready to go? Click Search.

TIP
Don't forget that you can fill in more than one box – if you know the author and part of the title search using Author and Keyword to narrow your results. Putting in the Author's Surname and the first words of the title is usually quickest

If you are looking for items other than books, for example a journal, you can select journals from the drop down box so that the only results you get will be journals.

The publication date shows the date the item was published so that you can see which is the most up to date

This shows how many copies there are in total. It doesn't tell you which campus they are on or whether they are currently out on loan

Using this dropdown you can change the order in which your results are displayed. For example, you can choose to show the most recent first so you don't have to scroll down the list looking for the newest editions

Where is the item in the library? The Shelfmark tells you where the item is shelved using the Dewey Decimal System. See handouts for help with this.

Copies and Loans shows how many copies there are at each location and how many of them are out on loan. If there is the same number in both columns then all of the copies are out on loan.
